

VOGUE

Photographed by Steven Klein for Vogue, April 2018

BEAUTY

Spring's Best Scents Are Soulful

Source Adage Monto'ac

The phrase “breath of fresh air” is just a figure of speech—or is it? Source Adage’s bracing Monto’ac may have you rethinking the term. Inspired by coastal hillsides and brisk hikes through the forest, it’s brimming with silver sage, oakmoss, and green tobacco leaves. With a name that means “great spirit” in the Croatoan dialect of the Carolina Algonquians, Monto’ac has a calming energy and crispness that stands in contrast to all the light, citrus-based “fresh” fragrances.

Source Adage Monto'ac
eau de parfum